CHAPERONAGE BOUYS LINE PLEDGES ARE COMPLETELY DISTRIBUTED FINANCED

High P. T. A. Mothers Are Asked by Mrs. Shaw to Guard Their Children.

UNITED ACTION SOUGHT $25,000 IS SECURED

L. A. County Probation Officer Tells of Action of the Federation on Subject

That serious attention be given to the matter of proper chaperonage of the young people, was asked of the members of Glendale Union high school Parent-Teacher Association at its meeting in the school auditorium Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. Hartley Shaw, juvenile court and probation chairman of the association.

Mrs. Shaw's talk was based on revelations which had recently been made relative to conditions in the social life of the young people.

She said "The schools are doing the best they can. They have to deal with the material we mothers send them. The homes are directly responsible for the social conditions and not the schools, only insofar as the schools give the social affairs. But, nevertheless, the parents are responsible for conditions on the way to the entertainment and on the way home from them."

Mrs. Shaw stated that the juvenile court committee of the Glendale federation of P. T. A. had adopted a creed for their work and were also asking the mothers to sign pledges for chaperonage. The creed and pledges read as follows: "Workers of right for right's sake. In kindness, sympathy and understanding may we help and inspire everyone with whom our work brings us in contact. I hereby pledge that I shall not permit my daughter to go out in the evening without a chaperone, or my son to accompany a girl who is unchaperoned." These pledges were distributed among the members of the association.

The meeting was opened by the salute to the flag, led by Miss E. C. Magnuson, and the singing of "America, the Beautiful." After the reading of the minutes of the last meeting by Miss Eva Daniels, secretary, Mrs. A. G. Bailey of Eagle Rock, treasurer, reported a balance on hand of $23.37. Mrs. W. Q. Widdows, president of the association, announced that it was necessary to change the date of the regular chairman's meeting from December 20, as school would be closed and the students of the high school were to give the December program. On motion, it was decided to hold the meeting on Monday, December 18. Mrs. C. J. Higgins, chairman of ways and means, asked for donations of home-made candy for the candy sale which will also be held at the school on this date.

Mrs. W. F. Sawyer, membership chairman, asked for assistance in making a canvass throughout the city to the homes of parents not belonging to the parent-teacher association and whose children were attending high school. The meeting was then turned over to Mrs. Thomas Wood, chairman of the program committee, who announced the following numbers: "The Land of Hope and Glory," sung by the Boys' Glee Club, under the direction of Mrs. C. A. Parker; piano solo, "Chanson Oriental," by Ruth Goto; piano solo, "To Spring" (Greig), and "Indian Lodge" (MacDowell), by Amy Bainbridge. Service, and the place of the library in the community, was the theme of the informal talk given by Mrs. J. C. Danford, city librarian, who invited the members of the association to visit the library, particularly as this was being nationally observed as "Children's Book Week." She stated that the students of the high school have been invited to attend a meeting at the library Saturday night, which will be observed as Boy Scout Night, when John S. McGroarty will be the speaker.

Mrs. F. B. Nay called the attention of the members of the association to the matter of the difficulty of securing telephone connection with the public library after the city hall telephone exchange closes at 5 p. m. A motion prevailed that a committee of three be appointed to confer with City Manager Reeves in regard to securing better telephone service connections with the library. This committee included Mrs. F. B. Nay, Mrs. Wickert and Mrs. W. A. Kulp. The meeting then adjourned.

TAME BOUTS STAGED
After three tame and listless preliminaries, Chris Columbus and Kid Wop fought a tiresome draw in the main go of the boxing show at the Glendale American Legion hall last night.

In the preliminaries Kid Affee lost the decision from Kid Irmo. Young Harry won from Kid Marsellino, and Joe Kelly proved his superiority for the second time over Kid Lerner in a fifteen minute wrestling match.

J. P. Hayselden Announces
Windup of the Campaign

Big Land Owners Swing Into the Game and Put It Over

Fine cars, no stint of service for "Our Road" is the slogan advanced today by the Glendale-Montrose line as the climax of the drive.

If there is no unforeseen delay, the contract will be back in three days from Omaha, and within two or three weeks the construction will start.

At La Crescenta the line will be extended 31,100 feet for which the La Crescenta people have raised $8,600 as a special fund, and the money is in the bank. The thing now is to get the money in the bank, show good faith and fund the construction.

By ALBERT MARPLE
The $25,000 necessary for the electrifying of the Union Pacific company's line on Glendale has been entirely raised by J. P. Hayselden, chairman of the combined railroad committee, it was announced at noon today.

The final boost in the campaign was given by the Forest Lawn Cemetery company, which donated $1000. Frank P. Flint gave $500 and several of the larger land owners in the northeast section of the city, including Sparr Heights and the Verdugo Woodlands, which firms materially increased subscriptions. The official announcement of the success of this campaign was made this afternoon at the weekly meeting of the Glendale Advancement association, which organization is responsible for the campaign, held at the Glendale city hall.

At the meeting the members present considered it a red letter day, as the construction of this line promises to do more for Glendale in general and the eastern section of the city in particular than anything that has taken place since the advent of the Pacific Electric line. Everything has been completely arranged between the Glendale-Montrose Railway company and the Union Pacific for the electrifying of this line, and it is understood that during the past few days the officials of the Glendale-Montrose company have been arranging for the purchase of cars, poles, and everything else necessary for the electrifying of this line. The very latest cars it is understood, will be placed on this line. They will be of a very attractive character and will contain high speed motors, which will assure local residents up to the minute service between Glendale and Los Angeles. The preliminary surveys for the new line, it is understood, have been made, and, if present plans are carried out, actual construction work should start in about a week or ten days. The road should be finished and in operation within three months after the first shovel is set in motion.

The contract between the subscribers to the line and the Glendale-Montrose Railway company calls for a 20-minute service between the hours of 6 and 8 in the morning, one half hour service from 8 until 4 o'clock in the afternoon. From 4 to 6:30 o'clock a 20-minute service will be given, and from 6:30 o'clock until midnight half-hourly service will be afforded. It is understood that all of the cars on this line will be met by the necessary amount of cars on the Los Angeles Railway line.

The improvements to be made by the Glendale-Montrose Railway company will include, it is understood, an entirely satisfactory waiting or changing station at the southern terminus, and the establishment of a high class waiting depot and power house at 129 and 131 North Glendale avenue. To a great extent the success of this railway project goes to the credit of J. P. Hayselden, that willing standby, who has relayed at any and all times to do anything that will be for the best interests of the city. He is the man who put this over. When practically all of the others became weak kneed, Hayselden stepped in the swirl and put the thing over. Of course, there were others who assisted, and these are named in a statement that is being issued by Mr. Hayselden, but after all it is said and done "Old Hay," J. P., or whatever you are wont to call him, was the backbone of the drive—the man behind the gun. Mr. Hayselden is a candidate for the next board of trustees of the Glendale chamber of commerce, which election is now going on. If the members of that organization want a real live wire, a go-getter, a never-quitter, they'll put "J. P." on that board.

SWATTING THE ANNEXATION-TO-LOS-ANGELES BUG

A few of our citizens are trying to bring to life the Annexation-to-Los Angeles Bug which has been swatted in times past before it has been allowed to grow to any size. These few citizens are now taking advantage of the uneasiness over the increase in our taxes to further their ends.

The Glendale Press is, and always will be, in favor of keeping our tax rate as low as is consistent with good business judgment, but we do not think a saving in taxes or a saving of any kind can be gained by annexation.

The Glendale Press knows our tax rate is higher than it should be. It is of the opinion that our city council, in face of our increased property valuation, should have reduced our rate 25 cents or more instead of raising it 25 cents, and they could have done this without loss of efficiency. In our editorial of Tuesday we gave figures to show that the city's income this year was 135 per cent more than last.

The fact that we have been trying to save the citizens some money in taxes caused some to believe that we were acting in the interest of annexation. Such is not the case. THE LOCAL TAX RATE OF $1.55 PER $100 IS A CITY TAX AND IS ABSOLUTELY UNDER THE CONTROL OF OUR CITIZENS. THE CITY COUNCIL MUST DO THEIR BIDDING.

We are quite certain that the majority of the residents of Glendale are not in favor of annexation and the cry of "annexation to Los Angeles," which has been raised by a few Glendale citizens. They seem to believe that if such a step were taken, Glendale would secure, among other things, lower taxes, adequate sewage disposal facilities and the elimination of the 10-cent telephone toll which is charged now for service between Los Angeles and Glendale. They would find, however, that they were figuring wrong, should annexation be accomplished.

On its face the supposed chance of securing these much desired advantages seems, to the uninformed, exceedingly appealing, but by a little thought, even those uninformed will change their opinions.

In the first place, this annexation talk probably emanates from outside Glendale. It is possible that the Los Angeles annexation promoters had something to do with the matter being advanced for discussion. It is certain that only Los Angeles would gain through the annexation of Glendale to that municipality. If by any chance the annexation spark did originate in Glendale, it probably has been vigorously fanned by outside influences until it has developed into an unwarranted flame. Even before it reaches the danger point it should be extinguished.

How about that telephone toll? This 10-cent toll was established on authority of the railroad commission, which based its decision on the distance between the two cities. Not on the fact that the service ran from one city to the other. In other words, the distance between Los Angeles and Glendale would be just as great after annexation as it is at the present time. So there is little probability of the railroad commission removing the telephone toll between the two places.

But for the sake of argument let us suppose that the telephone toll might be removed if annexation took place. Then residents of Glendale as well as the business men would still be money out of pocket. THE TELEPHONE RATES THAT NOW PREVAIL IN LOS ANGELES WOULD DOUBTLESS BE EXTENDED TO GLENDALE THE MINUTE THIS PLACE BECAME ANNEXED TO THAT CITY.

There is not a chance in the world that the telephone company would discriminate against the other outlying districts of Los Angeles in favor of Glendale by permitting the existing rates to prevail here while other sections were being assessed the present Los Angeles rates.

Note how the existing telephone rates in the two cities compare:

Residential telephone:
Single party phone—Los Angeles, desk, $4; wall,

$3.75 per month. Glendale, desk, $3; wall, $2.75 per month.

Two-party phone—Los Angeles, desk, $3.25; wall, $3 per month. Glendale, desk, $2.50; wall, $2.25.

Four-party phone—Los Angeles, desk, $2.50; wall, $2 per month. Glendale, desk, $2.25; wall, $2 per month.

The telephone calls made to Los Angeles by the average Glendale subscriber are not numerous, and the difference between the above figures would more than pay for the average number of calls per month.

But it is the business man who would "get his" so far as increased telephone rates are concerned. While he doubtless would enter more calls to Los Angeles than would the private residence, there is hardly a chance that the average merchant would call that city a sufficient number of times to offset the difference between the present rates and those that would doubtless be instituted in the event of annexation.

Here are a few interesting figures:
Business telephone:

Single party phone—Los Angeles, desk, $9.25; wall, $9 per month. Glendale, desk, $4.25; wall, $4 per month.

Two-party phone—Los Angeles, desk, $7.25; wall, $7 per month. Glendale, desk, $3.75; wall, $3.50 per month.

It will be seen that the present telephone rates for business telephones in Los Angeles are in some instances more than twice as great, and never less than twice as much as the rates in Glendale.

WITH THESE FIGURES TAKEN INTO CONSIDERATION IT WOULD SEEM THAT THE CRY OF "CHEAPER TELEPHONE COSTS THROUGH THE ELIMINATION OF THE 10-CENT TOLL" IS, IN THE PRESENT DAY TERM, "THE BUNK."

Then about the "more efficient sewage disposal facilities."

At the outset Glendale residents should be reminded that the officials of Los Angeles have acknowledged that that city cannot possibly afford Glendale any assistance whatever along the sewage line until 1928, and if the usual Los Angeles tactics are followed it will be nearer 1935 than 1928 before actual connection to the Los Angeles outfall could be secured.

It is a fact that although annexation did take place, Los Angeles could not give to this city any more in the way of sewage disposal facilities than she has already offered to give, even without annexation. But while Glendale is waiting for connection with the L. A. outfall, something must be done with the sewage of this city. The preliminary plan which must be constructed can be financed and built more satisfactorily and efficiently by Glendale than it can by Los Angeles.

The statement that Glendale's taxes would be decreased $1 per $100 assessed valuation in the event annexation should take place is another dream of those who, by a misconception, would endeavor to put over this annexation scheme.

Glendale's entire tax rate this year is $4.56. Of this amount $3.01 goes for school and county and could not possibly be lowered by annexation to Los Angeles. This leaves $1.55 per $100 valuation, which is a tax levied by the Glendale city council and divided as follows:

$1.05 per $100 for 1922-23 budget of Glendale for running expenses of the city; 30 cents per $100 for parks and recreation and 20 cents for library upkeep and expenses.

If Glendale annexes to Los Angeles she will have to assume her share of all of the bonded indebtedness of that city which—as is generally known—is tremendous. On the other hand, if annexation takes place, Los Angeles will assume NONE of Glendale's indebtedness. In other words, on top of our present taxes would be piled our share of Los Angeles' entire bonded debts, converting this city into a mighty fine dumping ground for the liabilities that Los Angeles wants to get from under.

Under these conditions, would annexation to Los Angeles pay? Anyone but the citizen who is tremendously biased cannot help but answer in the negative.

MARRIAGE IS LIKED TO CONVERSION

Rev. Cole Says Same Steps
Are Necessary in Both Relations

GREAT REVIVAL SERMON

Tonight's Subject Equally Interesting: "Religion in Your Wife's Name"

BY O. L. KILBORN

The half-hour song services that open the revival meetings at Central Christian church each night are greatly enjoyed by all who attend as truly as is the minister and they teach by song, precept and example. Last night's program was varied, as usual, being made up of congregational singing, a duet and a trio. A new song is taught the audience by Mr. Conner each night.

Last evening the usual church night supper was held as usual with an attendance of more than a hundred people and then after a social half hour the auditorium above was sought and the evening service began.

Rev. Cole's topic was "How to Get Married." The speaker stated that marriage should be a sacred thing, a sacrament, entered into thoughtfully and prayerfully, and that the steps leading thereto were very similar to those taken by the entrant into the church.

Rev. Cole said in part: "Marriage was ordained by God himself and is a sacred relation never to be entered into flippantly, lightly, or in a spirit of fun. While I am in favor of uniform and more stringent divorce laws I am more concerned about marriage laws. There is an analogy between the relation and those necessary to get into the kingdom."

"The first step is getting acquainted. Too many young people rush hastily into marriage without being properly acquainted. They are ignorant of each other's faults and failings and disaster nearly always results. Just so many people enter into formal church relation when they are not acquainted with Christ, the head of the church which is His bride."

"Then there should be mutual confidence and love. Paul says in I Corinthians 13, that though everything else fails love never fails. He also said, 'Husband love your wives, as Christ love the church, His bride.'"

"And confession is another necessity. As a man confesses his love for the woman he desires to marry so the one desiring to embrace Christianity should confess his love for the Christ. It is all that is demanded by the church of the repentant sinner and confession of love leads to be trothful. I am in favor of public betrothals and I honor the Catholic church for its insistence upon this."

"The next step is letting home. I think that in most marriages the young people should leave the old home and found a new one, as the person coming into church walks a newness of life. It is a new relation entirely."

"Then in marriage is the public ceremony and this I always make a solemn and sacred one telling the expectant bride and groom to search their hearts thoroughly before they enter into it. The person entering into new relations with Christ is 'buried by baptism into His death and like a Christ arose from the grave, arise to walk in newness of life.'"

"The bride changes her name. She does not take the name of the preacher or of some relative, but that of the groom. So the one baptized into Christ should take His name and be known as a Christian, only and not by any human name, for that brings division into the family of Christ and breaks up the home."

"Mutual concessions should be made by man and wife. The husband should be ready to give his life for his wife as Christ gave His for the church."

"The husband and wife should be faithful to each other as long as life lasts. There is only one Christian cause for divorce and that is unfaithfulness to the marriage vow, called adultery. When I marry a couple I say to them, 'Only one thing should be able to sever this tie and that is death.' So we should also be just as faithful to the Christ and not give any ground for divorce from Him and eternal banishment from His presence."

Tonight's sermon topic will be "Religion in Your Wife's Name." Friday night's service will be for the children and Mr. Conner is working up a wonderful program for them to carry out. The sermon subject will be, "Stop, Look, Listen."

POLICE CAPTURE SWINDLERS

Glendale Officers Take Three Short Change Operators in the Act

ALL PLEAD GUILTY

Lieut. Griffin and Detective
Royle Get Jump on the Men

B. P. Hughey, 24, Canyon City, Colorado; Joe Nading, 36, Roanoke, Virginia, and M. W. Guthrie, 28, Elkhart, Kansas, alleged short change artists, were arrested in Glendale Wednesday by Lieutenant Griffin and Detective Sergeant Royle. The arrest was made within fifteen minutes after the complaint was received at headquarters. They pleaded guilty to petty larceny before Judge Low at their preliminary examination.

At 2:25 o'clock the proprietor of the Maple avenue pharmacy, corner Maple and Brand, reported that short change men had been at his establishment and very neatly turned one of their tricks. Immediately the two officers jumped in a machine and raced down to learn the particulars. On the description received they followed up clues, finally tracing the offenders to the Glendale avenue branch of the Los Angeles Trust and Savings bank. Two of the men were sitting in the car, the engine of which was left running while the third was working at the Russell Bakery, on East Broadway, just a few doors east of the bank building. The officers left their car, with engine running across the street, one walking a short distance up the street and the other in the opposite direction where they awaited developments.

Soon Nading, who, the police say shortchanged a number of local merchants before his arrest, was reported, came from the local bakery with three loaves of bread beneath his arm and the "long change" in his pocket. Nading entered the car and the three proceeded up East Broadway, where they stopped at the Russell Bakery. The two officers followed the crooks and drove up alongside their car, just as they were dividing the spoils.

They were taken to city hall and later Highway and Guthrie were taken to Station No. 1, and Nading was taken to No. 2. In the car in which the fellows were riding when taken three loaves of bread, two cans of cup grease and a package of laundry were found. The preliminary hearing of the case was held before Judge Lowe yesterday. Nading was sentenced to 10 days in jail, Hughey and Guthrie were given 30 days each.

HI STUDENT BODY ADOPTS ITS NEW CONSTITUTION

The new constitution for the high school student body was adopted by a vote of 4 to 1 at a special election yesterday.

It increases the cabinet membership and provides for a larger representation of the student body. Its adoption ends a spirited controversy that began with the re-assembling of school this fall.

Members of the cabinet had opposed its adoption when promulgated by student body members had submitted it to them, but the final affirmative vote of 831 against a negative of 183 shows that the students were not satisfied with the old system.

The new document provides that each roll room select a representative for the roll room council. There will be four councils, one for each class.

The council will in turn choose a representative for the cabinet.

S. P. ESTABLISHES NIGHT TICKET OFFICE HERE

Glendadians May Buy Passage Up to 10:30 at Night

For the convenience of the residents of Glendale who wish to purchase tickets, service has been established at the Southern Pacific depot at this place. This service was instituted last Monday night and will continue indefinitely.

H. A. Delaney, who is well versed with the railroad business, has been retained as night ticket agent and will afford efficient service to those desiring it. The ticket office will be open until 10:30 each evening. A number of large electric lights have been hung at different parts of the station, which makes the surroundings as bright as day.

This night service and the illuminating of the station constitute the first step on the part of the Southern Pacific company to improve the service afforded the people of Glendale by that company. Arrangements have been made by the company for the stopping of more trains at Glendale. Eighteen trains stop here daily, nine of these being north-bound and nine being south-bound.

It is understood that the plans for the new depot that is to be erected by the Southern Pacific company at practically the point where the present station stands, are rapidly nearing completion and that the matter is being rushed to the limit.

HEAVYWEIGHTS TO PLAY
The heavyweight team of Glendale High will play its last league game Friday. Alhambra High will furnish the opposing team and the game will be played on Moyle Field.

Red Cross Drive Is Making Progress Here

The Red Cross membership drive under Mrs. John Robert White, made a brave start Monday in Glendale and it will be continued for about two weeks. Mrs. Daugherty in Precinct No. 16 reported 30 memberships secured, and Mrs. Ackley in Precinct 12, 63 memberships. Directors of the Glendale Chapter will meet Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Chamber of Commerce.

DELEGATION TO ATTEND REAL ESTATE MEET

Glendale Realtors to Represent Fraternity at State Convention

Quite a number of the realtors of this city are planning to attend the convention of the State Real Estate Association, which will be held from December 6 to 9. It is understood that the real estate men of Santa Ana are making elaborate preparations for the entertainment of the several hundred guests from all sections of the state who will gather for that affair.

A very interesting program is being provided for each day of this convention, capable speakers being scheduled to address the realty men at each session.

T. J. RYAN ROBBED
T. J. Ryan, 1222 Berkeley Drive, reports that his home was robbed last night, and $30 worth of carpenter's tools and $15 worth of hardware taken. The police are working on the case, but up to the time of going to press nothing had been heard of the missing articles.

EXCHANGE CLUB TO FIGHT L. A. ANNEXATION

Appoints Committee to Go Into Action Against Consolidation

The National Exchange Club swung into the fight against annexation to Los Angeles Wednesday. A committee composed of five members was appointed to oppose whatever move there is on foot in an effort to effect a consolidation of the two cities.

Dor Orput, well-known for his community service gave the members a very clear conception of the meaning of the term. Of course everyone was in favor of a recreational center for Glendale and the many advantages it will involve. Mr. Orput will have three members from the club to assist him in giving Glendadians a community center.

Appros of the coming drive under the auspices of the Salvation Army, Col. Everington, speaking from personal observation, gave the members of the Exchange Club of Glendale at its meeting yesterday, a "word's eye view" of the tremendous amount of good the Salvation Army accomplished for the service men during the late World War.

Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson is general chairman of the executive committee appointed to carry on this work, and to assist him in this worthy cause three members of the club were appointed.

PRESS-NEWTON TO GIVE CONCERT THIS EVENING

Exceptional Program Given Last Night by A. L. Greenlaw

An exceptional program was offered via the Press-Newton radio station last night between 7 and 7:30 p. m. Mr. A. L. Greenlaw, noted author and resident of Glendale gave a patriotic recitation entitled "The Stars and Stripes," and a dramatic recitation entitled "The Dying Baron."

Mr. Greenlaw received several compliments from local fans on the clearness of his enunciation and the emphatic expression and feeling that he put into his recital. He served five years as a school teacher, twenty-five years in the ministerial association and twenty-five years in writing. Consequently, he is not a young man, which makes his work all the more interesting. His last book was completed in May, 1914, the title, "Evolution of Humanity." In this book Mr. Greenlaw had predicted the world war and even more, he predicted the destructive mechanical devices to be used during the war. He predicted the outcome, and in fact, he knew just how the war would go from day to day. Many readers will remember him, as there were only three people in the world that foresaw the war and its outcome at this time. Mr. Greenlaw was the first to voice his predictions and many of the newspapers in the middle west ridiculed him. The same newspapers were forced to apologize to him three years later. Mr. Greenlaw is not a clairvoyant, but is the possessor of a very rare foresight. The many radio fans will be glad to know that Mr. Greenlaw will return to his friends through radio KFAC sometime next month and entertain them for a longer time.

Mr. A. C. Holcomb, 1154 Viola street, of Glendale, received the entire program on a loop aerial, crystal set and no ground, using a pair of 2000 ohm Manhattan Fones on an auto horn for a loud speaker. He reports the audibility as loud as usual even though he had no ground and stated that every word of Mr. Greenlaw's recitation was heard and understood, as if he were in the same room with him.

The KFAC orchestra will entertain this evening between 7 and 7:30 o'clock.

Error in Price of Fontana Farms Acres

In the article upon the growth of the Fontana Farms, printed in the Glendale Daily Press, Nov. 10, an error was made in stating the price of acreage on the farms was $450 per acre. This valuable property is now $500 per acre. There is little question as to its increased value and desirability.

GLENDALE STIRS WITH CIRCUS TALK

Largest Social Event of the Season Draws Near to Realization

MERCHANTS COOPERATE

Windows Full of Prizes Offered for the Tuesday Afternoon Club Show

As Saturday draws near the interest of every person in Glendale is turned toward the big Society Circus to be given by members of the Tuesday Afternoon Club at the Elks' Clubhouse. This will be the largest social event ever staged here and each member is working hard toward the success of the affair.

Not only are members working hard, but the merchants of Glendale have been most generous in their wonderful donations. Some very beautiful prizes have been given and much credit is due these Glendale merchants.

The prizes and different articles for guessing contests are to be seen in Pendroy's window, H. S. Webb & Co.'s window, Page Furniture Co., Arthur Dibern's Jewelry store window and the Buster Brown Shoe store window.

The day opens with a parade at 10:30 starting from the Elks' clubhouse. Concessions will be open all day and luncheon will be served at noon. An added attraction to the dinner hour, which will begin at 5:30 is the cabaret entertainment which will be given by professionals.

Miss Kathleen Woods, late of the Pantheons and Orpheum circuit and also with the Marion Morgan dancers, will give a gypsy dance costume. Mr. Ecko of the Douglas Dancers of Seattle, Wash., will give a beautiful Arabian dance in costume. Mrs. J. A. Wright will play the piano, Dorothy Armstrong welcome the violin and Frank R. Wilson of Burbank the tragic. These professional musicians will furnish the music for the solo dancers. There will also be an orchestra to play during the dinner. Later in the evening there will be dancing in the two ballrooms, music being furnished by the Bode-Henning orchestra.

A feature of special interest will be the fortune telling booth. There will be a crystal gazer, palmist, psychic reader and fortune teller, all in costume, and they will tell into the mystic future of those who cross their palm with silver.

Mr. Bryan from the dahlia farm at the Verdugo Woodlands is donating some beautiful dahlias which will be auctioned off.

The balloon booth in charge of Mrs. C. B. Guttard will sell balloons as bricks for the new clubhouse and everyone should buy a "brick."

Mrs. Walcott will have a modern beauty parlor as a concession and any lady desiring to have her hair dressed for the evening's ball, may do so free of charge. Mrs. Walcott will also give away samples of her cold cream and other cosmetics.

For the convenience of those attending the circus there will be an information bureau to guide them to the various booths and entertainments. This will be in charge of Mrs. Paul Hoffman and Mrs. Helen I. Campbell.

Mrs. E. L. Young will have a pumpkin guessing contest for which a beautiful silk sweater will be given as a prize.

Mrs. Steven Packer will sell tickets for the child's table and four chairs to be given away.

Some other concessions will be the F. A. Clarke Electric company and the West Coast Sanitary Mop company.

Harry McPherson, John Roman and Arthur Dibern are assisting the ladies in every way possible and much credit is due them for their persistent work.

Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, chairman of the ways and means committee, has certainly been a busy lady but she feels that this affair will be a wonderful success. She states that everyone should bring their children with them as there are so many attractions for them to enjoy, such as the fish pond, the goose and of course the ice cream cone booth, should prove of interest.

Truths in Epigram

Affection is the broadest basis of good life.—Eliot.

It is seldom, if ever, that the reformer swallows his own pre-ceptions.—A Modern Diogenes.

What a man does for others, not what they do for him, gives him immortality.—Webster.

STUDENT SPELLING

According to Prof. Ralph L. Power of the University of Southern California "the spelling of college students today, to say nothing of their punctuation and penmanship, is appalling."

This is no radical view. It expresses the truth about a situation that has been deplored in these columns many times. That the fault lies largely with the system of public school teaching, there is no reason to doubt. Through some prompting of intellectual laziness the instructors seek to have the pupil to know how to use words without having learned to spell them. This cannot be the basis of a sound education. The pupils graduated thus ignorant of a primary essential, are handicapped until they have learned in practical life that which they should have learned in the grades.

Children may be taught to read parrot-fashion. That is, they become able to pronounce words they see in the printed page, but the word itself to them is the symbol, the letters composing it being utterly meaningless. If they write the word, it is a drawing, as truly as though instead of setting down "c-o-w," they had made a picture of the animal. Ask a pupil thus trained how to spell cow and he would be as likely to respond "xod" as to give the proper answer. He would not know where to look for a word in the dictionary.

The folly of such training is so apparent as to leave no room for argument concerning it. The individual who does not know how to spell lacks the rudiments of a proper education. The first move in conquering the art of reading, is to know the letters of the alphabet, and to understand the relation of one letter to another. The way to learn to spell is to study spelling.

COLD BLOODED BETTING

It is said that considerable wagering has been made upon the verdict in a murder trial. The occasion is regarded as cold-bloodedly as a race or a ball game. Bets are laid that the decision of the jury will be murder in the first degree, the second degree, or that there will be a compromise verdict, or a disagreement. If this is a manifestation of the sporting spirit, the spirit in question needs curbing.

Gambling virtually destroyed horse racing. It tried to get a hold on the baseball world, but was detected in time, and the game was saved. In relation to the immorality of betting under certain conditions there can be no question. When it is capable of causing corrupt means to be employed to affect the outcome of a contest or an event, betting is an evil. When men bet on horses, they do not invariably resist the temptation to bribe jockeys and other attaches of the track. The owners of horses have been known to connive at crooked practices. In racing, the victory often depended not on the merits of the horses, but the way in which the money had been placed. When the corrupt practices invaded the baseball field, their first act was to induce players to lose games they were drawing salaries to win.

A murder trial is an important occasion. It should be decided according to the truth as ascertained through witnesses. Yet jurors have been known to sell out; witnesses to commit perjuries for gain. To permit betting on murder trials would be to add one more to the agencies that so often thwart justice. Often a man who bets on an election loses sight of principle. His one purpose is to win. Similarly a man with a heavy wager on a verdict, might employ devious methods, bringing pressure to bear upon witnesses and jurors. For these reasons it would seem that this form of gambling should be interdicted rigidly.

THE QUESTION OF SENIORITY

An attempt is likely to be made to abolish the seniority rule as it prevails in the senate. Whatever merit the rule may possess, there could not be denial of the tendency to put men in positions that they could not fill satisfactorily. On the other hand, abolition of the rule might thwart the desires of the best element, and leave determination to the shrewd politicians of the senate. That these invariably would act to the interests of the country at large, there would be hesitancy in affirming.

At times there has been fault found with seniority in army and navy. Adverse criticism here does not rest on a basis apparently as sound as in relation to senate conditions. Officers are under continuous training even after the rigid discipline of their schools. Each advance that an officer makes is preceded by an examination in which he must prove his fitness for promotion. Hence when a high grade has been reached, the inference is fair that it is held on merit, and is indicative of capacity for another upward step.

Men in the senate often are elected without regard to their qualifications. The training they receive does not, necessarily, result in improvement, but merely serves to make them become more set in their ways, and more adroit in carrying out plans possibly selfish. So far as the public is concerned, however, discussion of the subject must be academic. The course of action comes wholly within jurisdiction of the senate itself.

RUSSIA'S DEMANDS

In a recent note to Poland, Russia insists upon being treated on the same footing as other powers. This, by the critical, might be construed as an impertinence, and the world is in a critical mood. For years Russia has been making efforts to be different from any other nation. It has assumed towards all the powers, save those with which it has sought to unite against the rest, an attitude expressive of hostility. In building up a great army while its babies starved, or were fed by charity, Russia certainly succeeded in being different. Now, as truculent as ever, threatening to overrun Poland, and to defend the Turk, it asks that the difference be waived. This does not seem quite consistent.

Russian leaders profess to give approval to the course of Turkey. Turkey has in some measure defied the great powers that have held Turkey in restraint, but seem to have been guilty more recently of lessening the severity of the restraint. It is not to be assumed that Russia has affection to lavish on the Turk. In so far as the discontented hordes of Islam may be made to serve the purpose of Russia, of course the warlike spirit shown by the Turk is gratifying to the bolsheviks. It adds to the problems, and tends to accentuate the spirit of disorder in Europe. Thus it plays into the hands of the soviet regime.

How Russia can expect to be treated on the footing of other nations, after having spurned such footing, and defied every convention of these nations is to be explained only by some process of thought alien to the mind of civilization.

THE HIGHLOWBROW

By DR. FRANK CRANE

S. Jay Kaufman of the New York Globe has invented a new term which ought to come into general circulation. It is a name that we may apply to the man that hates to be classified and tries to be open-minded toward all people and all propositions.

The word is Highlowbrow. His three-jointed definition is that a Highlowbrow is a man educated beyond his intelligent capacity; a Lowbrow is a guy who hates a Highbrow, and a Highlowbrow is just a regular fellow who tries to get good out of every good thing.

The Highlowbrow enjoys jazz music, if it is original and entertaining, and he also enjoys a Tchaikowsky symphony or a Wagnerian opera.

The Highlowbrow finds pleasure in a good tough intellectual book, and also in a bit of nonsense.

He can read and appreciate John Dewey, likewise he can read and appreciate George Ade.

He refuses to let himself be chucked into any intellectual or sentimental pigeonhole.

He likes to see a pretty girl, he can play a game with enthusiasm, he can chatter with the other fellows in the smoking compartment of a Pullman, and he enjoys a good story.

Likewise, he is entertained by a lecture, and he derives real satisfaction from going to church. He loves the prattle of children and also the philosophy of old age.

His interests are as wide as humanity. He feels rather a compunction of conscience when he finds any subject which is interesting a large group of his fellowmen, but which does not appeal to him. In other words, if he cares nothing for sports, or for business, or for the society women, or for books, or for music, or for religion, or for the theater, or for art, he does not boast of it, but rather conceals it as a weakness.

A Highlowbrow is adaptable. He loves to fit himself to others. He has no ambition to be a crooked stick in the woodpile.

Consequently a Highlowbrow is rarely bored. He approximates that perfection revealed by Robert Louis Stevenson, who declared that he was never bored in his life.

It will be found that the people most easily bored are those who are most completely encased in their own vanity.

Our enjoyment of life is directly proportionate to the breadth of our sympathies and the depth of our understanding.

The Highlowbrow is usually a poseur.

The Lowbrow is usually a defective afflicted with the inferiority complex.

The Highlowbrow is a regular fellow.

To Mr. Kaufman for this word much thanks.

THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON

SELF-CULTURE
E. U. Graff, Superintendent of Schools of Indianapolis, Indiana, Emphasizes Its Importance

"The problem of turning out good English scholars from our public schools is a difficult one unless each individual himself takes a hand and sets up a standard, which he will use every effort to enforce," said Mr. Graff to the author of "The Right Word."

"Habits," continued Mr. Graff, "are formed by repetition. Habit-forming influences and practices are divided as follows: one-tenth in school and nine-tenths out of school. The schools' task is to form habits and to overcome outside influences, but, if the individual does not enlist his own efforts in his own self-culture, the results can be none too gratifying. There is a common feeling on the part of the people that the schools are not as effective as they should be in the matter of training children to speak and write properly, and I am not over-sensitive on the point for the reasons I have given.

"It is significant that foreigners are better linguists than Americans. The tendency in America is to study only English. Now, there is no criterion to go by if you know only one language. You learn three cases, nominative, possessive, and objective. That is dogmatic. But the study of foreign languages teaches that a noun has cases to determine its various functions. So cases in English become intelligible. One set of facts verifies the others.

"The study of another language gives a by-product of English syntax and usage you could not get in any other way. The result of this study is not in familiarity with the foreign language so much as in a better understanding of our own. The study of Latin, French or any other language more highly inflected than our own clarifies the nature of the English language so that we see it in its true light.

"Self-cultivation is the answer. It is the key to better speech."

In regard to the split infinitive Mr. Graff said, "I am somewhat of a purist, and am, consequently, opposed to the split infinitive. Where are you going to draw the line, at one adverb inserted between the to and the verb form? Or are you going to insert a whole sentence and make the construction ridiculous? If there must be a rule, let it be not to split an infinitive."

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

Serenity.
The aspect of the ocean when untroubled with storm.

Of the mountain in the twilight.
Of the great field awaiting harvest, when the heads of the grain are barely moved with the wind.

Of the great soul awaiting the fulfillment of human endeavor.

It is a majestic quality.
And only the great souls have had it. They were not born with it. Neither did it come to them suddenly. The way to it was through the valley of Trial and Trouble.

Lincoln had it.

Through all the waste and terror of civil war he was serene.

He was troubled in his spirit.

He suffered agonies for his people.

But he was serene.

He knew that right would eventually prevail.

That the Union would be saved.

Washington had the same quality.

He bore long and patiently the same waste and terror of war.

He was defeated and defeated again.

But he was not despairing and not dismayed.

When his soldiers doubted, he was sure.

He had serenity.

Serenity.

Calmness and assurance in the face of adversity and trouble.

A quiet confidence in the purpose of things.

That quality which is not to be dismayed by temporary defeats.

Dut looks forward to the eventual triumph.

of hope and courage and right and high spirit.

Genius has often had it.

The great composers who have given us symphonies.

In the face of trial and trouble and poverty and misunderstanding they have gone on.

Serene, sure, untroubled, not doubting.

For they have had great souls.

And the Master of us all.

He had it more perhaps than any one else.

Through Gethsemane.

Up Golgotha.

At Calvary.

In the face of humiliation and shame and scourging and pain.

He was serene.

The soul of him was bigger than the body of his suffering.

He looked upward and beyond the temporal defeat.

He forgave his enemies.

Besought forgiveness for them.

And his last words bespoke the serene and courageous soul.

And afterward?

The message he left borne across and through a struggling and suffering world.

His faith was vindicated.

His sureness was well founded.

And because of that faith he was serene.

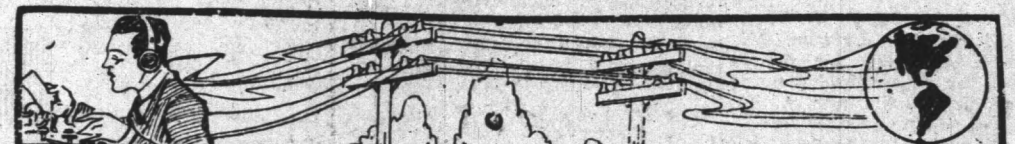

Serenity.

The calm of the courageous spirit.

Not afraid.

Not doubting the purpose of life and the wisdom of its rules and laws.

Looking forward confidently to the vindication of Right and Truth.

My Wife's A Winsome Wee Thing—By Robert Burns (1759-1796)

She is a winsome wee thing,
She is a handsome wee thing,
She is a bonnie wee thing,
This sweet wee wife o' mine.

I never saw a fairer,
I never lo'd a dearer,
And niest my heart I'll wear her,
For fear my jewel tine.

She is a winsome wee thing,
She is a handsome wee thing,
She is a bonnie wee thing,
This sweet wee wife o' mine.

The world's wrack we share o't
The warble and the care o't;
Wi' her I'll blithely bear it,
And think my day divine.

NEW MUSEUM INTERPRETS AMERICAN ABORIGINAL LIFE

New light from all directions breaks in upon the life of the aborigines of the western world through the study of the vast collections of the Museum of the American Indian, Heye Foundation, which opened in New York.

This is the only museum in the world devoted exclusively to the preservation of the records of the races which were living in the western world when Columbus reached these shores and contains 1,800,000 specimens. The great problems to which it is dedicated include the unweaving of the mystery of the origin of the so-called red men themselves.

There is a novel system of installation, introduced for the first time in the United States, through which the public can see what is not open to view, without asking for it. Under many cases there are drawers which the visitors may pull out and view objects under their glass tops.

The students and the research investigators also have access to the collections in storage, all of which have been systematically catalogued by the director himself. There is not a bit of bone or a potsherd in the whole institution which cannot be instantly found for purposes of comparison and research.

If some one should come in with a fanciful theory that the Australian bushmen and the American Indians had some relationships because both used boomerangs, he would see that such a comparison did not hold good very far. The Indian rabbit-stick is not a boomerang, although it looks a little like that famous weapon, because it really does not come back. Fact can thus be quickly separated from fancy by bringing the objects themselves quickly to the study of the investigator.

"The trustees of the museum," said Mr. Heye, "wish to make it clear that the objects which are assembled here are of great practical value, aside from the historical and archaeological interest attaching to them. This is realized, for instance, by many manufacturers of textiles, who have been making use of ideas gained from our collections. They have been sending their designers here even before the museum was officially open and they inform us that they have found the inspiration of many new designs, which were adapted from what was seen here. We think also that the textile industry will find data to guide it in dyeing operations, as many of the objects here, centuries old, were dyed with vegetable colors which to all appearances are as fresh as they were when first applied. We believe also that although modern machinery has outdistanced the Indian craftsman in speed, that the industries of the 20th century will find many hints in the synoptic exhibitions of baskets, ceramics and carving which we have installed. In every way the desire to serve the public is uppermost."

The board of the museum consists of Harmon W. Hendricks, James B. Ford, F. Kingsbury Curtis, Archer M. Huntington, Minor C. Keith, Clarence B. Moore, F. K. Seward and Samuel Riker, Jr. Mr. Heye (also is a trustee) is chairman.

The specimens are shown on three of the four floors

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

[Pittsburgh Gazette-Times]

What we would like to see is abolishment of the tulum "woman's work is never done."

There are, to be sure, a limited number of machines offered to lighten the drudgery of housekeepers. But they do not reduce the volume of duties devolving on the human domestic machine. At best they make it possible for wife and mother to perform necessary services that otherwise were neglected. Husband and father may idle away half his waking hours and exact himself a little while discharging his paid duties. If the dream of power distributed by wireless is realized there may be still less for man to do. But household labors will not be affected. We are not insensible to the great benefits conferred on mankind by labor-saving machinery applicable to productive industry, but it is not a top-sided progress that fails to take heed of the greater need for lightening the toll of womankind?

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

In a recent sermon a Los Angeles pastor said that America was the hope of the world. A little later he enlarged the basis of hope by including England.

HENRY JAMES

Sometimes, in casting about, over conditions in various parts of the globe, doubt arises that there really is any hope. The whole structure of society and government seems so faulty, that one forgets faith, and views the outlook with despair. This mood passes, and again it is possible to glimpse a fairer future, when the better instincts of humanity shall have conquered the utterly selfish impulses in which nations now find their motives.

If any minister of the gospel is able to show just how America, even in partnership with England, shall go about the business of saving the world, he will be honored as a sage and prophet. The stupendous difficulties in the way are manifest in the attitude of peoples towards their neighbors. Instruction in this attitude leads to immediate knowledge that France and Great Britain are not working to common purpose. Italy suspects the two of bad faith. The United States, having elected to keep hands off, is in a position aloof. So far as it has an influence, this must be largely by example. Whether the example it is setting suggests more pleasing international relations may be a question. If the people of each race conclude to live for themselves alone, the spirit of unity that is to bind all of them, may cease to function.

Russia and Turkey show no desire to enter into amicable relations with neighbors. They wish to dominate. The best example this country might set could make no appeal to them.

If the United States is the hope of the world, it must be through giving the world an inspiration towards a higher plane of ethics and morals. By becoming a notable success in self-government, and in the promotion of justice, perhaps it might be accepted as a model, but it possesses no panacea operative against the ills of a troubled civilization.

A man experienced the mischance recently of having a $7000 ring snatched from his finger. In the present state of indecorous activity among the crooks, and man bedecking himself with so costly a gaud, must realize that he is taking chances.

The desire for display sometimes leads to recklessness. A safer method would have been for the owner to have kept his gem in a bank deposit box. Then, by wearing across his shirt front, the jeweler's receipt, or a canceled $7000 check, he could have informed the world of his affluence without risk of loss.

Contrary to the usual rule, the later reports of the earthquake in Chile show the catastrophe to have been greater than at first believed. Such a disaster is a matter concerning the whole world, for no region knows that it may not be the next victim. Doubtless there will be abundant aid for the stricken survivors, this being the practical way of expressing sympathy.

The ease and regularity with which Mary Garden breaks into print is interesting and really admirable. She can't wish her cane without the camera fiend taking a shot at the incident and treating it as an episode. Commemorations from her lips are gathered up as strings of pearls. And all the space she gets doesn't cost her a cent.

Discussing uniform divorce law for all the states, one writer makes the statement that it is good that each of the states has a different code. The forty-eight sets of experiments will prove which system of the lot is best.

This is an extraordinary view. Probably nobody would express it sincerely, and the subject is rather sombre to be the inspiration of jokes. The conflict of the laws of the different states in this respect not only is deplorable, but it is pathetic and stupid, leading to countless wholly useless complications.

It is possible that a skilled driver feels that by using anti-skid chains he is reflecting on his own ability. However, if he declines to use the safety device, he is likely to pay more to the doctor than the price of a dozen sets of chains.

An Armenian resident of Los Angeles is reported to have sold his daughter for $3000 cash in hand. Now he is in jail, and the girl is in custody of the authorities, far more kindly than the father.

Girls are not sold into matrimony in this country in any such frank fashion. When they are sold the transaction is disguised with respectable and even impressive ceremony, and become a bit of news under the caption "Wedding in High Life."

Turkish leaders are said to be defying the allies. They can get away with this sort of thing just until the allies choose to drop diplomacy and substitute military tactics.

There is no real question but that England, alone, could chase the Turk backwards much faster than he came forward, if once impressed with the necessity for taking so radical a course.

There is an old saying that "No news is good news." There is no great merit to it excepting its age.

"No news" is the absence of all news, good or bad. When it is due to a breakdown of wire connections with Constantinople, its non-arrival is not the augury of cheer.

WATCHING THE PARADE

BY JOHN PILGRIM

The man who has the office across the hall must be eighty years old—seventy-five, anyhow. But he is as brisk as a young colt. He hikes around town at a boy's pace and he runs for street cars and trots upstairs and does all the other things that distinguished doctors say octogenarians should not do.

"I'd like to know how he does it," I groaned the other day, feeling the twinge in the right arm brought about by winter's cauld blast.

"I'll tell you," said a friend. "He hasn't looked in a mirror in twenty years."

It seems to be a fact, amazing as it undoubtedly is. He discovered, twenty years ago, that he was by no means as young as he used to be, whereupon he set himself to ignore the fact. He has actually not looked in a mirror in the twenty years that have passed. If he looks in a store window he disregards his reflection and only sees the goods on display. He refuses to think himself old, or talk old or act old. So far as he is concerned, time ceased to fugit a score of years ago, and he is hanging on at a permanent fifty or fifty-five. He will never be any older until an outraged nature attends to his case some day. Even then there will be a fifty-year-old smile on his face as he lies in the coffin.

"Silly, isn't it?" said the friend, commiseratingly.

"I'll say it is not silly," it is the brightest idea that I have heard of recently—for a man. No woman could do it. It is the constant hammer of the mirror that makes most of us feel old, anyhow. We go along, feeling as young as we used to feel—not quite so brisk in the morning, maybe, and less inclined to stay out at night, and inclined to swear when we are taken away from a good book at night to see a movie by mutts for morons, but we do not recognize that the years are sneaking up on us. Then, one day, we look in the glass.

"Lawd a mussy on me," we say to ourselves, "and can this be I?"

For there are wrinkles and crow's-feet and flabby chins and sunken cheeks and dull eyes. Thereafter we instinctively keep on looking in the glass to see if our worst suspicions are coming true, as they invariably are. Not a doubt of it. We're getting old.

Whereas if we had done as my neighbor across the hall did twenty years ago, and treated the passage of days with cool contempt and refused to acknowledge wrinkles and dew-laps, we might all of us be as young as he is today. And he is the youngest man of his years I have ever known. Only the evidence of the calendar persuades me that he is almost eighty years old.

He seems to have beaten Dr. Cooie to it.

AMERICAN LEGION PLANS FOR WEEK OF EDUCATION

To Be Held with Cooperation of the Public School Authorities

Everything is rounding nicely into shape for the American Educational week, which will be held under the auspices of the American Legion during the week of December 3 to 9. In this program the American Legion and the school authorities of Glendale will work in conjunction.

The idea of this week will be to promote the popular interest in education and to advance educational pursuits. The operations will embody everything from the kindergarten up. The aim is to remove illiteracy, to provide equal educational opportunities throughout the country.

A meeting of the American Legion committee, consisting of C. W. Schwitters, Dr. H. C. Smith and Attorney Eugene J. Wix was held in the office of Attorney Wix, Wednesday morning, the purpose of the session being to work on the arrangement of the program for this very important week. Much work was done at this meeting and it was announced that the program for Educational week will be completed by the first of next week.

The program for the week, it is known, will include special programs on two days at each of the schools of Glendale. To these all of the people of Glendale, and especially the parents of the school children, are invited and urged to be present.

The activities of the week will start with the services in the churches on the evening of December 3rd. Speakers from the American Legion will be provided for each of the churches. Then on through the entire week speakers will be provided for the meetings held by the various civic organizations, the clubs, women's societies, lodges and labor bodies.

SWISS SOAP MAKER USING AUSTRIAN PAPER MONEY AS WRAPPERS BECAUSE IT'S CHEAPER

The value of the Austrian kronen has fallen so low that a Swiss Soap manufacturing concern is using 10-kronen notes as wrappers for its product. This novel means of advertising has attracted much attention and at the same time is being done without expense, as the notes cost less than the wrappers formerly used. The photograph shows an employee wrapping soap in real money.

Listening in on Eve

FROM LUCILE'S DIARY

Ever since Burling Preston and Jimmie Hayslette set up their bachelor apartment I have been wishing to make some little contribution to their housekeeping, and the other day, when I was having afternoon tea with Nell Clay, I asked her for the recipe for the delicious marmalade she always serves with tiny slices of toast at her teas. I thought a few glasses of it would be just the thing to give the boys.

"It's an old family goody that we are rather chary of," said Nell, smiling at me. "It's a sort of Clay specialty. I'd love to give you a glass of it, Lucile, but it's one of the traditions of the clan to keep a few of our French great-grandmother's delicacies secret."

"Well, of course, had I known it was an ancestral rite I should not have asked you for the rule, Nell," I said, laughing. "It's so very nice that I thought I should like to make some to give away to some friends of mine who couldn't possibly make any such toothsome dainties for themselves, but I can make something else for them all right, poor dears."

"Oh, if you want it for a charitable purpose, of course you may have it, Lucile. In such a different circle there's no danger of its becoming common. I suppose we are a little ridiculous about our heirloom recipes."

The making of that marmalade, with all its different fruits to be prepared in different ways, proved to be a hard task for me, and I found it necessary to enlist the help of Cousin Fannie, to whom cooking comes naturally. Indeed, I became so nervous by the time that we finally got it on the stove for the last boiling that I simply had to go upstairs and lie down with a book to soothe myself.

I had read only one chapter when I had to rise to answer the telephone. It was Aunt Rachel wanting Cousin Fannie to meet her in one of the stores to help her select new furs.

"Oh, dear, she can't possibly go, Aunt Rachel," said I, "for she is just in the midst of making some perfectly wonderful marmalade. We are going to give you some, auntie, dear. She couldn't leave it now, but I can run downtown to meet you if you'd like to have me."

"Very well, Lucile, come on down," she replied without much enthusiasm. I was glad to go, for I felt she needed my gay young companionship. We had, indeed, a most pleasant afternoon together, and I got home just as Cousin Fannie was paraffing the last glasses of the marmalade. She looked at my new moleskin scarf in surprise.

"Where did you get it?" she asked, and, unreasonably, I thought, she appeared quite annoyed when she heard that I had been shopping with Aunt Rachel, who had given me the scarf.

"Why," she said, "Aunt Rachel told me she wished me to help her select her new furs, Lucile. I was counting on a day in the shops with her."

"Well, doubtless, she'll take you some other day soon, when you haven't marmalade on your hands. Dear Cousin Fannie, what a jewel you are to have finished this job for me. I wish you to know I appreciate your kindness."

"I hope you do," she replied. On last Sunday Jimmie and Burling gave a most fascinating supper party for twenty people, cafeteria style, in their apartment, and every one was simply crazy over the marmalade which they served with the hot biscuits that Louise Erwin made for them.

"Lucile must have all the kudos for this wonderful stuff," said Jimmie. "It was she who made it for us and I am wondering if she didn't invent it also, for I never dreamed of anything so strangely delicious. It is a marvel."

"You mustn't give me too much credit," I remarked, with a smile at Nell Gray, who did not return it. "I procured the recipe from a friend."

"Blessings on your friends, then," chimed in Burling, but Nell said nothing until in the dressing room, as we were putting on our wraps, when she commented coldly on the fact that the "poor dears appeared to appreciate the marmalade."

"Well, wasn't it a work of charity to donate something to these young housekeepers?" I asked laughingly, but she did not deign to reply, nor did she explain, when I called her attention to the fact that I had endeavored to give her some of the credit, why she did not respond to my effort by relating the story of the old family recipe.

I dare say it is part of the Clay pose of aristocracy and reserve that makes her so exasperatingly quiet at times.

EDITORIALS By the PEOPLE

REV. A. B. SMART

The Bible is the word of God, God is its author; no man, or any number of men could make it. It is a Bible, a book of books. It is in two parts, The Old Testament and the New Testament, two covenants—the Law and the Gospel. They have 66 small books, 39 in the Old Testament, and 27 in the New Testament. They were produced in 2300 years, 2200 from Job to Zechariah for O. T. and 100 from Zechariah to John for the N. T.

They had 40 different writers, in 10 different lands, thousands of years and thousands of miles apart, unacquainted with each other, with no possibility of planning or conspiring together; in three different languages—Hebrew, Greek and Aramaic.

All wrote on one subject, Religion—the most difficult upon which men can think, talk or write and agree.

But yet these 40 men and 66 books all agree essentially and exactly. They all present the same God; the same Christ, same Savior and Holy Spirit. They put the same facts as to sin and its remedy. They give the same law, the same gospel, and the same personal experiences of salvation, begun by conversion under the law, and perfected by perfect love and holiness under the gospel of Christ.

They teach all the same doctrines and require the same facts in experience. The New Testament in Paul's letter to Titus, II:11-14, puts it all in one compound sentence, thus: "The Grace, or Love, of God that bringeth salvation for all men hath appeared, teaching all that rejecting all ungodliness, and every worldly lust we must live soberly, righteously and godly in this present life, looking eagerly for that blessed hope, the manifestation of the glory of the Great God and our Savior Jesus Christ, who gave Himself for us, that He might redeem us from all iniquity, and purify unto Himself; a peculiar people zealous of good works, that He before ordained that we shall walk in."

This answers all the infidelity, past, present or future.

That the Bible is God's word is proved by the fact of prophecy. It is evident that none but God can foretell the future events. But the Bible foretells a multitude of events thousands of years before they occur.

Enoch, Job, Moses, David and others, foretell the coming of Christ thousands of years before He came.

So also the prophets did. None but God could have told them.

Again, the Bible is inspired, for it is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, and for instruction in righteousness, that the man of God may be perfect and thoroughly furnished for all good works. No other book claims to do these things.

"The mouth of the Lord hath spoken it," is XI:5.

"Comfort ye, comfort ye my people, saith the Lord your God."

"Speak ye comfortably to Jerusalem. Cry unto her that her warfare is accomplished, that her iniquity is removed; for she hath received from the hand of the Lord double for all her sins."

Conversion and the new birth under the law, and cleansing from all carnality and perfection of love, by the Gospel of Christ.

"The voice of him that cryeth in the wilderness, prepare ye the way of the Lord, make straight in the desert a highway for our Lord. Every valley shall be exalted, and every mountain and hill shall be brought low. The crooked shall be made straight, and the rough places smooth."

"The glory of the Lord shall be revealed, and all flesh shall see it together, for the mouth of the Lord hath spoken it."

A voice, prophecy, said, "Cry." Another asked, "What shall I cry?" "All flesh is as grass and all the goodness thereof as the flower of the field. The grass withereth and the flower fadeth, for the spirit of the Lord bloweth upon it."

The people are grass, the grass withereth and the flower fadeth, but the word of our God standeth forever. The gospel, oh Zion, that bringeth good tidings: "Get thee up into the high mountains, O Jerusalem that bringeth good tidings, lift up thy voice with strength; yea, lift it up! Be not afraid; say unto the critics of Judah, behold your God—Savior will come with a strong hand! His arm shall rule for Him! His reward is with Him, and His work before him. He shall feed His flock like a shepherd. He shall gather the lambs with His arms and carry them in His bosom and shall gently lead those that have the young"—children.

The purpose, aim, origin, structure, principles, law, character, doctrines, experiences, civilization and results—each and all show that God only is the author of the Bible and no other is or can be.

One sentence, covering the facts, shows the Bible to be from God only as its author; Rom. xiv:13, and Phil. II:10-11, says—"As I live, saith the Lord, every knee shall bow and every tongue shall confess that Jesus Christ is Lord to the glory of God the Father."

Probably nothing tries a lazy man more than the thoughts of what he may have to do tomorrow.

PERSONAL SERVICE

WILL BE A

PARAMOUNT ISSUE HERE

WE BELIEVE we are humanizing the services of the Community Savings and Commercial Bank to a degree that will be appreciated by the people of this section when it opens its doors for business on November 18th.

Very much more than a mere business relation is going to dominate the activities of this institution, and the nearer it can come to being your kind of a bank—indispensable and helpful to you in the highest degree—the nearer it is going to approach the ideals of its directors and officers.

You do not need us to tell you that the opening of a bank is the result of much serious consideration, grave counsel, and prolonged deliberation. The issuance of the State charter under which this bank will operate proves that there is need in this community for the services of the Community Savings & Commercial Bank. The opening of a new bank founded upon high ideals of cooperation and service places another means of progress and development in the hands of people in this section. Therefore, we say that the opening of this bank is an event of first importance, so important that you will undoubtedly want to become personally identified with it in some tangible, lasting way.

Recognizing this, we have provided for each First Day Depositor a handsome De Luxe Artpoint Pencil. The first depositor at the window, either checking or savings, will receive one of these handsome and useful gifts in gold, and in further connection with this institution, it is to be remembered that it is no small honor to be known as the first depositor in a bank.

Let the Children be First Day Depositors

OPEN AN ACCOUNT on our opening day for the child attending school and let us give them one of these handy and beautiful souvenirs. Start them right. Open a substantial account for them and let them understand the importance of financial progress. One of these tokens will forever identify this bank with the children and the children with this bank.

It will also afford untold pride and pleasure to them and to you both now and throughout the years to come.

There is only one First Day—only once, that a bank marks its advent into the commercial life of a community, and your children will appreciate the opportunity you gave them of obtaining a lasting souvenir of so unusual an event.

This Bank Will Be Open From 9:00 A. M. to 9:00 P. M. on Opening Day Only

Pacific-Southwest Review

By D. H. SMITH

Manager Brand Boulevard Branch Pacific Southwest Trust and Savings Bank

D. H. Smith

It turns the wheels of industry and carries products to the market. It is the foundation of practically all business enterprise.

Banks are warehouses of credit. From the stores in their vaults it is allocated to worthy individuals and enterprises. These are entitled to credit not merely upon their ability to pay at some future date the obligations which they incur, but also upon their good character and reputation for honesty.

Reputation may be described as other people's opinion of a person or thing. Reputation grows from acquaintance. The banker gains knowledge of a customer through business acquaintance with him—even though it be limited to occasional visits to the savings department with deposits. This banking acquaintance is important to every man. It is very valuable when credit is desired. It should be cultivated.

That production activity has increased notably during the past six months in all the major industries and in nearly every section of the Twelfth Federal Reserve District, although there has been only a slight increase in the use of bank credit for commercial purposes, is the statement made recently by John Perrin, Federal Reserve Agent at San Francisco.

"Total loans and discounts of reporting member banks in the larger cities have increased but $55,218,000, or 6.7 per cent, since February 1, when the low point for the year, $818,102,000, was reached. Rediscutions of these banks with the Federal Reserve Bank, at $11,966,000 on October 9, were near the lowest levels of the year. Recently their holdings of investments have declined slightly. The country banks, as a group, have borrowed only in small amounts during the current crop moving season. On October 11 the total discounts of the Federal Reserve Bank had declined to $34,573,000, the smallest figure since member banks began to reduce their borrowings in December, 1920," according to Mr. Perrin.

The fact that a customer of the Pacific-Southwest Trust & Savings Bank does not live within personal reach of this bank or any of its branches does not militate against its banking operations, as every service of this bank can be rendered, and is rendered, by mail.

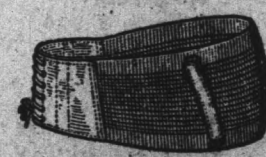

No matter where you live—in the city, suburbs or country—you can open an account with this Bank by mail. The Pacific-Southwest Trust & Savings Bank is no farther away than your nearest mail box—for every mail box in the United States or any foreign country will receive deposits.

In opening an account or sending deposits, it is very important that all drafts, checks and money orders payable or endorsed to an individual shall be endorsed across the back in the following manner: "Pay to the order of Pacific-Southwest Trust & Savings Bank (Signature of Depositor)."

Care should be exercised to be sure that the envelope is plainly addressed to the particular branch of the Bank where the account is to be opened or is held.

Customers of this Bank are asked to watch for Federal Reserve Bank notes, $1000 Denomination numbers J1401A to J1427A, inclusive. These were secured by fraud at Kansas City on October 30, 1922, by Jerome James, who is described as follows: Age 32, height 5 feet 10 inches, build medium, hair and eyes brown, smooth shaven. A warrant exists for his arrest.

DUTY

The duty of a retail lumber yard does not consist only in selling lumber. To consider carefully the individual requirements of each customer, to recommend only those materials which satisfactorily fill those requirements.

To conscientiously advise our customers of the complete line of goods available, by means of which the prospective builder can get in touch with contractors, carpenters, builders, plasterers and cement workers.

These are functions which this firm considers its elementary duties.

NOTICE OF AWARD OF CONTRACT

Pursuant to Statute and to Resolution of Award of the Council of the City of Glendale, California, adopted the 9th day of November, 1922, directing this notice, notice is hereby given that the said Council, in open session, on the 2nd day of November, 1922, opened, examined and publicly declared all sealed proposals offered for the following improvement, to-wit:

The improvement of a portion of Kenneth Road, Sonora Avenue, Ruberta Avenue, Winchester Avenue, Raymond Avenue, Thompson Avenue, Irving Avenue, Allen Avenue, Linden Avenue, Elm Avenue and Alameda Avenue.

As described in Resolution of Intention No. 1624 passed by said Council on the 2nd day of August, 1922, to which said Resolution reference is hereby made for a description of said work, and of the district to be as-essed therefor. The Council of the City of Glendale determines that serial bonds shall be issued to represent assessments of twenty-five ($25.00) dollars or over for the costs of said work or improvement; said serial bonds shall extend over a period ending nine (9) years from and after the second day of January next succeeding the date of said bonds, and an even annual proportion of the principal sum thereof shall be payable by coupon on the second day of January every year after their date until the whole is paid; and the interest shall be payable semi-annually by coupon on the second days of January and July, respectively, of each year at the rate of seven per cent per annum on all sums unpaid until the whole of said principal and interest is paid. Said bonds shall be issued in accordance with the provisions of an Act of the Legislature of the State of California, entitled "An Act to provide a system of street improvement bonds to represent certain assessments for the cost of street work and improvements within municipalities and also for the payment of such bonds," approved February 27, 1922, and of all Acts supplementary thereto, and amendatory thereof. And thereafter, to-wit: On the 6th day of November, 1922, awarded the contract for said work to the lowest regular responsible bidder, to-wit: Hugh Cornwell and John W. Henderson, at the prices specified for said improvement in their proposal, on file for said improvement, to-wit: Grading, per linear foot, $.95

CITY PRINTING

Cutting, per square foot, $.21
8-inch oiling and macadamizing, $.095
Curbs, "Class B," per linear foot, $.20
Sidewalk, per square foot, $.17
4-inch Cast Iron Pipe, per linear foot laid, $ 1.30
8-inch Matheson Joint Pipe, complete, $ 250.00
And that said award has been approved by the Mayor of the said City of Glendale.

TREND OF FASHION

By Helen Merrill Emery

Red stitching adds color to a dark blue suit.

DISCOVERY OF OXYGEN

was made by Antoine Laurent Lavoisier (1743-1794). Mercury was heated in air and for several days kept at a temperature a little below its boiling point. The result was the formation of a small quantity of red powder. The powder was heated in a glass tube to a temperature above the boiling point of mercury, and the result was the giving off of a colorless gas in which a glowing splinter would burn energetically. Investigation showed that part of the powder had disappeared and drops of mercury had collected on the sides of the tube. Therefore it was proved that the powder was mercury and oxygen, which compound again separated when heated, the oxygen returning into the air.

HAMMURABI

was king of the Amorites who had come from the territory north of Palestine and conquered the peoples living along the lower Euphrates. After a long war Hammurabi, about 2300 B. C., conquered all this territory and the history of Babylon really begins.

AIRPLANE FIELD TO COME BEFORE COUNCIL

Committee of Chamber of Commerce to Report on Work of Review

The aeroplane committee which is seeking for a commercial airplane field in this city and which is composed of Edwin M. Fisk of Cattron & Fish Airplane and Engine company, Ivar L. Shogren of the Western Airplane Corporation, and Thornton H. Hamlin of the Photomap company, will this evening appear before the city council together with a committee appointed by the Glendale Chamber of Commerce composed of Roy L. Kent, City Manager Reeves and W. E. Hewitt, to urge co-operation of the council in securing such a site.

The site suggested is the acreage owned by the city and San Fernando road south of Grand View and near the pumping plants. The desire of the promoters is to make this such a port of entry for airships as San Pedro is for water vessels. Such a field would be convenient to transportation and the fact that a field is being established in Griffith park for pleasure craft is alleged as another reason for locating the commercial field not far distant.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK—

THAT people are interested in reading the ads when their pockets are bulging with money to spend.

THAT they are INTENSELY INTERESTED in advertising when what they spend must be carefully spent.

THAT then they buy what they can afford and ads tell them where to find the bargain.

THAT when business is lagging is the time to spend more money for advertising.

THAT these business men who do so, feel a depression much less than those who cut down expenses by cutting down advertising.

THAT to curtail advertising cuts down sales.

THAT cutting down sales cuts down production.

THAT cutting down production cuts down employment.

THAT when employment is cut down, it leaves a whole lot of people with no money to spend.

THAT you should keep up your advertising so you can keep up your sales.

THAT "BUSINESS AS USUAL" is the slogan.

USE ADVERTISE!

"HUNDRED MILLION DOLLAR KIDS" PLAY AS SLEUTHS KEEP WATCH FOR KIDNAPERS

Guarded by a corps of detectives, Edward B. McLean, Jr. and his little brother, John R., sons of Edward Beale McLean of Washington, D. C., recently went to Atlantic City to enjoy the sea air. The boys, known as the "Hundred Million Dollar Kids," played about in the sand, unmindful of their guards.

RURAL DEVELOPMENT

Valuable information on colonization and rural development in California is contained in circular No. 247 just issued by the University of California agricultural experiment station. The circular includes addresses delivered in a short course in land settlement given at the College of Agriculture, Berkeley, September, 1921, as follows: (1) What Should Be the Next Step in Rural Development?

by Elwood Mead, professor of rural institutions; (2) Selecting Land for Settlement, by Chas. F. Shaw, professor of soil technology; (3) Capital Required by California Settlers, by R. L. Adams, professor of farm management; and (4) Rural Planning, by J. W. Gregg, professor of landscape gardening and floriculture.

Among the topics included are existing conditions in California relative to land settlement and the needs of the future; the spheres of public and private enterprise in land settlement and the importance of the $3,000,000 bond issue, and the necessity of putting California farm land on the market at prices which are based on its actual value, variable though they may be.

Special needs of settlers are estimated and grouped and financial data presented from selected California farms.

The circular forms a valuable text on the subject of rural development in California and will be found especially helpful to prospective settlers. A copy of circular No. 247 may be secured by addressing the Director of the Agricultural Experiment Station, Berkeley.

DOES IRRIGATION PAY?

There is probably no horticultural practice that is more often abused than that of irrigation. In some localities it is only possible to secure water at certain times and the grower can make the applications only when it is available. Often when needed most it cannot be secured or at least in sufficient amount to keep the trees in best growing condition.

Some growers, where plenty of water is possible, allow their orchards to distinctly suffer before making the needed irrigation. Instead of watching the soil moisture they wait until the trees plead for water, when, with some tree fruits, it may be too late for best results.

NEW CASEY HOME TO BE FINISHED BY CHRISTMAS

Knights Initiate Class of 70 Members

The Knights of Columbus last night exemplified the first degree of the order to a class of 70 in the Chamber of Commerce hall.

The degree was exemplified by the Pasadena degree team, headed by Past Grand Knight, Barney Leonard who did wonderful work in putting on this beautiful and impressive degree.

Following the degree work, the officers were installed in office by District Deputy, Dr. Henry J. Borichard of Oxnard, after which Grand Knight, Harry Girard, gave a wonderful talk outlining the plans for the Knights of Columbus for the coming year, especially with reference to the new $25,000 club house on Lomita avenue, the foundation for which has been laid and which will be completed in time to hold the annual Christmas tree for the children of the Knights on Christmas day.

Over $10,000 was subscribed to the clubhouse fund during a 10-minute intermission following Mr. Girard's talk.

The members then partook of a buffet luncheon and a musical program consisting of solos by Grand Knight Harry Girard, Chancelor Edwin J. Albright, Vincent O'Donnell, the wonderful boy tenor of the Orpheum Circuit of Los Angeles, also sang, as well as Mrs. Burns of the Los Angeles order. The musical program was presented by some of the most talented artists in Southern California.

The additional first degree will be put on the first week in December with an equal or greater number of candidates.

Among the notables present last night were Past Grand Knight Mat Jick, a prominent San Francisco attorney; J. Joseph Coyne of Los Angeles, State Deputy of the order; M. J. Hanftan and Frank O'Neill and many other prominent men from the various cities of Southern California.

For strictly tailored suits and overcoats, see Minden, 108 South Maryland, Ad.
